The Lebanon Valley Conservancy:

Protects natural open space and valuable farmland in Lebanon County, working with landowners on conservation easements

Values contiguous forest and biodiversity of plants and wildlife

Invests in our youth with the Richard and Karen Light Scholarship, for students pursuing studies in environmental sciences

Plants hundreds of trees each year to clean up waterways

Partners with watershed organizations to restore and enhance our watershed, cleaning up water for our residents and the Chesapeake Bay

Assists in designing green spaces downtown and in the community

Collaborates with organizations to provide outdoor recreational opportunities and improve the health of the community with areas to bike, hike and walk

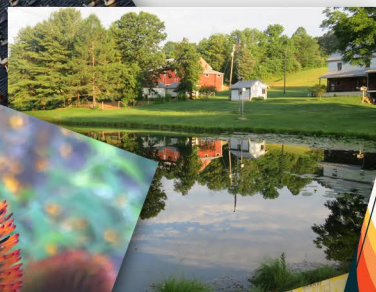

Supports the John E. Wengert Memorial Park and the corridor of the Lebanon Valley Rail Trail to the northern part of the county

Establishes natural areas and native plants to mitigate runoff

Listens to the community and helps to solve environmental concerns

Helps other non-profits to create a holistic approach to local issues

Inspires others to take environmental action.
